KING UMBERTO MAKING READY TO QUIT ROME

COMPROMISE SOLVES CRISIS; COURT'S RULING AWAITED

BY JOHN P. McKNIGHT

Rome, Thursday, June 13 (AP)-The Italian council of ministers in an order of the day authorized Premier Alcide De Gasperi to assume the powers of provisional chief of state.

The order was the government's reply to a letter from King Umberto II in which the monarch reaffirmed his intention to remain chief of state until the supreme court renders a definite verdict on the results of last week's plebis-

Before the order was issued strong police forces with cavalry and tanks broke up a Monarchis demonstration threatening a fullscale riot in the heart of Rome last night. Bands of Monarchists and Republicans clashed elsewhere in the capital. Many were injured.

Heavily reinforced police broke Popolo with clubs and swords. The crowd, which had been in an ugly mood, thinned and dispersed uner the weight of the police forces thrown against them.

Approximately 40 persons were injured, among them Rome's chief of Police, Ciro Verdiani, who was clubbed over the head. Bombs were thrown but failed to explode. through today an amendment requiring the agency to add in—

Swan J. Peterson, 77, Foster City, Is Killed

Swan J. Peterson, 77, well known Foster City farmer and logger, died at the Penn hospital in Norway at 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon of injuries received in an automobile collision on Mon-

The accident occurred on highway US-2, three miles east of Waucedah. Also seriously hurt in the accident were Jacob Malnar, 55, and his brother, Frank, a paralytic, living in Traunik. State troops said cars driven by Peterson, going west on the highway, and by Anton M. Malnar, 61, Limestone, who was going east, collided. Anton Malnar, the driver of the second car, suffered bruises. Peterson and Jacob and Frank Malnar were taken to the Norway hospital.

Peterson, a former supervisor of Breen township, had resided in Foster City 56 years. After the Morgan Lumber and Cedar company abandoned its operations at Foster City, Peterson purchased the entire townsite, including the sawmill, store, dwellings and other company buildings.

He operated the store until a few years ago. He also operated a large farm and timber operations for many years.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington-Those who have studied Harry Truman over the years can't decide whether it is blind personal loyalty or some other bond which makes him go through hell and high water for the Tom Pendergasts, the James Varda-

mans, and the John Sny-

Obviously, it isn't just because they hail from Missouri. Truman loyalty goes deeper than that. It almost takes the form of a petty vindictiveness - a tendency to wreak vengeance on the public by putting that crony in a position of trust where the public must suffer without means of retaliation-until next

Thus, one of the first things Harry Truman did when he became President of the United States was to fire Maurice Milligan, the U.S. attorney who had jailed his friend Tom Pendergast. Milligan has only done his duty. But within a week after Truman stepped into the White House, Milligan began looking for another job.

Next, Truman fired the Attorney General, Francis Biddle, who had stood up for Milligan and tried to keep him as U. S.

More recently, some advisers proposed the appointment of Justice Frank Murphy to be chief justice. Murpy is one of the outstanding members of the supreme court, but not for one minute did he have a chance to be chief justice. For he was the attorney general of the United States who ordered the prosecution of Pendergast. It made no difference that Boss Pendergast operated one of the most crooked machines in the country. The guiltier he was, the more Harry Truman defended him, and the more vindicative he was toward Pendergast's enemies.

CEMETERY PLAN IS DISCUSSED

Committee Asks City To Take Over Old Burial Ground

Problems affecting the future management of Lakeview cemetery were brought up for consideration at a meeting of the city council Tuesday evening. George Nicholson, Mrs. A. S. Mr. Nicholson, as spokesman for the group, stated that the affairs of that burial ground had arrived at that stage where something would have to be done to keep up the place in the state it merits.

It was suggested that proxies from the cemetery association meet with a council committee consisting of Mayor Berger, and Councilmen Walter Burns and A. W. Heitman and make arrangements for deeding over the grounds to the city.
